Privacy/Data Use Policy

This Navigating a Foodborne Outbreak: Preparation for Interprofessional Practice module is provided by the Association of American Medical Colleges (AAMC), the American Association of Colleges of Nursing (AACN), the Association of Schools and Programs of Public Health (ASPPH), and the Association for Prevention Teaching and Research (APTR), (together, the “Sponsors”). This module is hosted by Dynamic Digital Advertising, LLC (Hosting Vendor), under contract with the AAMC. This module collects personal information such as your name, contact information, institutional affiliation, professional and educational background, and demographic information as well as information about module usage. The Hosting Vendor will provide usage reports to the Sponsors for operational and evaluation purposes. The reports will not identify individual users by name, except when contact information is shared with Sponsors to troubleshoot technical issues. The reports may identify a user’s institution or instructor. Any other use of personal information collected, processed, or stored by the module is subject to the AAMC Privacy Notice (https://www.aamc.org/44866/privacy.html).
